

EVALUATION CRITERIA DEFINED

Each nomination must exemplify at least two of the below criteria:

Innovation

MPOs, transportation agencies, staff, and elected officials are at the center of innovations to enhance and shape their communities. This criteria not only evaluates “new” ideas that have impacted the transportation planning process, but also examines “creative” approaches to implementing specific projects or a bigger vision.

Impact of Profession

MPOs, transportation agencies, staff, and elected officials can greatly influence the cities, counties, and regions that they serve. This criteria looks at the potential application of the nominated effort to other MPOs and how the plan or project (components and methodology) would further the cause of good planning.

Implementation

MPOs, transportation agencies, staff, and elected officials are the engines for pushing ideas into actions. This criteria looks at the implementation strategy of the nominated effort, what it includes, and the steps that have been/were taken to help build momentum and public support for following and implementing the effort.

Coordination

MPOs, transportation agencies, staff, and elected officials are encouraged and required to work with a host of agencies. This criteria looks at strategic partnerships or alliances that were developed to help meet the goals and objectives of the nominated effort. It also considers the steps that were taken to engage community leaders, local officials, and other agencies to support and assist in the nominated effort.

Additional Criteria

- The project or work being submitted must have taken place within the last four years.
- Self-nominations are permissible.
- It is suggested that award winners attend the annual membership meeting, September 24-27, in Salt Lake City, UT. Visit the meeting website for details!
- An award recipient may not be selected for each category. Recipients will be selected based on the nominations.
