Reauthorization & Looking Ahead

Context and where we are in the process

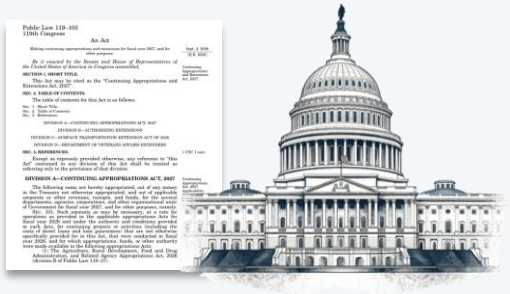

Reauthorization | Where Things Stand

Legislative progress

The House T&I Committee approved the BUILD America 250 Act on May 22, 2026, by a bipartisan 62–2 vote. Included AMPO & LOT coalition priorities.

Current authority

IIJA surface transportation program authorizations were extended through December 11, 2026 continuing resolution.

Remaining work

Financing, action across relevant committees, and agreement between chambers remain central to a final package.

Note: the extension continues existing program authorities, but does not renew the IIJA's advance appropriations (~$36.8 billion).

Potential legislative pathways for Reauthorization

1 SCENARIO 1

Lame-duck deal

Maybe

Both chambers agree on a multiyear bill before the 120th Congress is seated.

2 SCENARIO 2

House acts, Senate waits

Maybe

The House passes its reauthorization bill in the lame duck; the Senate does not act.

3 SCENARIO 3

Senate text, then extension

Maybe

Senate committees release base text now, and the new Congress takes it up under another extension.

4 SCENARIO 4

Extensions continue

Maybe

Congress passes one or more extensions while financing, scope, and policy are negotiated.

What carries into the 120th Congress

A bipartisan starting point

MPO priorities on the table

AMPO and LOT Coalition priorities gained visibility through the BASICS Act and House reauthorization talks.

Unresolved policy questions

Funding levels, program structure, local access, and project delivery reforms are still being negotiated.
Timing: extensions versus multiyear authorization?

New legislative opportunities

Incoming members and leadership changes open the door to revisit provisions and advance more MPO priorities.

Key takeaways for MPOs

A changing Congress brings new opportunities.

New members and committee leadership create opportunities to strengthen relationships and educate congressional offices about MPOs.

Reauthorization remains a major priority.

The next Congress will have significant decisions ahead on transportation funding, program structure, and the role of local and regional partners.

Now is the time to engage.

MPOs can begin preparing regional examples, building congressional relationships, and communicating the importance of federal transportation investment.
